1. Purpose

Children and young people are defined as all those who have not reached their 18th birthday. Throughout this policy the term children is used to mean children and young people.

The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child requires that children live in a safe environment and be protected from harm³. StCH has a statutory duty to comply with legislation laid out in the Children Act 2004⁴ and the Children Act 1989⁵, specifically sections 11 and 13 of the former and sections 27 and 47 of the latter.

The key principles of a child centred and coordinated approach to safeguarding are²:

- Safeguarding is everyone's responsibility: for services to be effective each professional and organisation should play their full part; and
- A child-centred approach: for services to be effective they should be based on a clear understanding of the needs and views of children.

2. Scope of policy

StCH recognises the importance of safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children. As an organisation it is committed to ensuring a culture within which staff and volunteers are competent to recognise and respond promptly to concerns relating to the welfare of children. This includes all staff and volunteers feeling confident to share their concerns within a culture that promotes openness and transparency.

Although the service StCH provides is predominantly to adults, adults under the care of StCH may have dependent children who may be at risk due to the health or behaviour of their parent/carer, or for other reasons. Some children may be acting as young carers, or need additional support in terms of early help. StCH will undertake to remember at all times children's vulnerability and seek to work with parents, schools and other agencies where appropriate to safeguard them and promote their welfare. StCH also recruits volunteers under the age of 18 to whom this policy would apply.

This policy draws on two documents:

- Safeguarding children and young people: roles and competencies for healthcare staff. Intercollegiate document. Fourth edition: January 2019¹.
- 'Working together to safeguard children' 2018² – including section relating to 'People in Positions of Trust'. (Organisations who work with children and their families must have sufficient policies in place, primarily those for dealing with allegations against people working with children.)

The policy and associated training is also aligned with the Pan Sussex Child Protection and Safeguarding Procedures and guidance¹⁰.

4. Policy statement & aims

This policy outlines how StCH meets its duties under legislation to safeguard and promote the welfare of children and reflects the importance StCH places on this. It supports an organisational culture of listening to children and taking account of their wishes and feelings, both at an individual level and when developing services.

Safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children is defined as:

- Protecting children from maltreatment
- Preventing impairment of children's health and development
- Ensuring that children grow up in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care
- Taking action to enable all children to have the best outcomes

5. Accountability and responsibility

Safeguarding children is everyone's responsibility and no one should assume someone else will pass on information. All staff and volunteers who come in to contact with children MUST know what to do if they have concerns about the welfare of a child and MUST know that these concerns, no matter how small, should be discussed with the safeguarding lead or their deputy.

All Staff/Volunteers must

- be aware of their individual role in safeguarding children and the role of other professionals
- understand and follow this guidance and related StCH policies and procedures
- demonstrate competency in recognising maltreatment of children and the ability to take action as appropriate to role and maintain these competencies through attending and engaging in compulsory training, reflecting on cases and engaging in CPD and the appraisal process
- be responsible for safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children they come into contact with
- be responsible for identifying and responding to concerns about child safeguarding
- know what to do if they have concerns about the welfare of a child. This includes who to obtain advice from within StCH and how to refer to the appropriate agency
- be aware that in the unlikely situation that the safeguarding lead or their deputy do not agree that a referral needs to be made to social care in the case of suspected abuse, but the member of staff remains concerned, they may make a referral directly themselves
- cooperate with other agencies to protect individual children and young people from harm
- share information about concerns with agencies who need to know, involving parents and children appropriately

In addition, staff and volunteers who hold positions listed below have the following responsibilities:

Safeguarding Lead must (with support from their Deputy) ensure concerns raised about the welfare of a child are acted on appropriately. If a child safeguarding concern is identified, they must be notified. They will consult with those raising concerns and the decision will be made by the Safeguarding Lead or deputy as to the action to be taken. The Safeguarding Lead/deputy are responsible for making

To ensure you are using the current version of this document, please access it directly via StCH intranet; other versions cannot be guaranteed as current referrals to the local authority, they may, however, delegate this responsibility to the person raising the concern (but are still responsible for ensuring it happens). If there is immediate risk of harm to the child and/or delay in being able to contact the Safeguarding Lead /deputy when action needs to be taken promptly, the concerned staff member/volunteer is responsible for making an urgent referral to the police and/or local authority (see appendices 1 and 2) in conjunction with their line manager.

NB when the Safeguarding Lead/deputy are not available, eg out of hours, their responsibility for ensuring concerns raised about the welfare of a child are acted on appropriately are delegated to the SMT, consultant and senior nurse on call.

In addition they must;

- support all activities necessary to ensure that StCH meets its responsibilities to safeguard/protect children and young people.
- be responsible to and accountable within the StCH managerial framework and contribute to planning and strategy in relation to safeguarding/child protection
- support and advise the board and SMT about safeguarding/child protection by working closely with the SMT executive safeguarding lead
- provide advice and supervision to all staff and volunteers within StCH regarding safeguarding/child protection (both in terms of education and responding to concerns)
- make themselves available and approachable to hear and discuss all concerns relating to children, no matter how small
- ensure concerns raised by a member of staff or volunteer working within StCH are acted upon promptly and appropriately, and that appropriate feedback is given as to the outcome
- ensure clear local arrangements for collaboration with other professionals and agencies (this includes procedure for sharing information)
- liaise with external professionals in relation to safeguarding/child protection as necessary
- circulate a written update annually to all staff/volunteers about safeguarding/child protection. This will include updates to this policy, any changes in legislation, summary of concerns raised and outcomes, outcomes from reviews and risks associated with internet/social networking.
- report quarterly (at a minimum) to SMT on outcomes and concerns raised
- ensure this policy is kept current and be responsible for its dissemination and implementation.
- report annually to the Board with regard to safeguarding/child protection
- contribute to the delivery of training and ensure the training takes place and is in line with the intercollegiate framework and the requirements of StCH.
- oversee a robust system to monitor the management of concerns raised and hence the quality and effectiveness of this policy and associated training.

Managers, Supervisors* and Senior Clinicians must:

- be responsible for ensuring that child safeguarding concerns raised by their staff, or staff they are responsible for as the senior person on duty, are acted upon appropriately and promptly. If the safeguarding lead/deputy is unavailable, they are responsible for deciding with those raising concerns the action to be taken (with support from SMT and/or medical consultant).
- ensure staff understand their contractual obligations with regard to child safeguarding and know what to do when they encounter or suspect a child is at risk of harm or has been harmed
- ensure staff are aware what to do when they encounter or suspect abuse or neglect.
- take any allegation about a member of staff seriously

To ensure you are using the current version of this document, please access it directly via StCH intranet; other versions cannot be guaranteed as current

- be responsible for ensuring high standards of practice among their staff and that their staff have the necessary resources and support to comply with child safeguarding procedures.
- be responsible for ensuring that their staff undertake child safeguarding training as required, ensure the competencies of their staff are maintained through the appraisal process and facilitate access to regular supervision, training, support, advice and supervision

*supervisor = those staff who are responsible for supervising a member of staff in clinical practice (eg doctors in training or nursing students)

SMT must

- give the safeguarding lead and deputy authority to carry out their responsibilities as above
- ensure all staff and volunteers have access to appropriate training, learning opportunities and support with regard to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children in order to be assured they have the knowledge, skills and competence to undertake their roles. This includes being assured that staff/volunteers know how to respond to a concern and where to go for advice and assistance
- ensure conditions of appointment, job descriptions and employment contracts outline individual responsibilities in relation to child safeguarding
- ensure staff and volunteers are recruited safely by ensuring robust employment practices are in place, including, but not confined to checking references and ensuring up to date DBS checks.
- ensure appropriate systems and processes are in place to embed a culture of safeguarding within the organisation
- ensure appropriate use of risk assessment and registers, incident reporting processes and user experience/feedback to review and improve safeguarding systems and processes.
- hold managers accountable for ensuring their staff undertake child safeguarding training as required.
- ensure disciplinary procedures are compatible with the responsibility of StCH to safeguard and protect the welfare of children
- monitor the effectiveness of this framework through regular feedback to them via the StCH governance structure. This will include number of child safeguarding concerns or incidents raised and related outcomes.
- appoint a member of SMT to take leadership responsibility for the organisation's safeguarding responsibilities

Executive Lead for Safeguarding must

- provide leadership in strategic planning in relation to safeguarding/child protection and sure it is part of core business
- oversee the assurance of safeguarding/child protection arrangements at StCH
- ensure there is a programme of training
- ensure serious incidents related to safeguarding/child protection are reported immediately
- support the safeguarding lead and deputy to implement safeguarding arrangements

Chief Executive must

- ensure arrangements are in place at StCH to reflect the importance of safeguarding and to promote the welfare of children who come into contact with StCH
- ensure all staff are able to protect individual children from harm

To ensure you are using the current version of this document, please access it directly via StCH intranet; other versions cannot be guaranteed as current

- be accountable for ensuring that StCH has a robust framework in place to support child safeguarding procedures. This includes ensuring necessary policies and procedures are in place, there are appropriate resources available and training and supervision is delivered.

The Board must

- Know their responsibilities with respect to safeguarding
- Ensure scrutiny of StCH's performance with regard to safeguarding
- Require assurance of StCH's performance with regard to safeguarding
- Ensure their own and staff/volunteer mandatory trainings are up to date for Safeguarding Children
- Sign off this policy when it is updated ensuring it reflects both the law and best practice and gain assurance that the associated procedures are effectively implemented.

The Local Authority must

- Provide advice and guidance to StCH in situations where a member of staff or volunteer has had an allegation made against them about harm or potential harm to children through the designated officer for the management and oversight of allegations against people who work with children
- In the StCH catchment area there are 2 local SABs Pan Sussex (West Sussex, East Sussex, Brighton and Hove) and Surrey.
- The LA is the lead agency for coordinating children and young people safeguarding enquiries and should assure itself that any enquiry satisfies its duty under section 14b of the Children's Act 2004⁴.
- StCH must cooperate with the LA. This includes the provision of requested information.
- The LA is responsible for providing feedback to StCH on referrals made to them under safeguarding procedures
- Place greater accountability on senior leaders for each agency with equal duties placed on the police, CCGs and LAs to work together on safeguarding decisions and to promote children's welfare

6. Procedure

StCH will seek to safeguard and promote the welfare of children by valuing them, listening to them and respecting them.

What to do if you suspect abuse or neglect

Any employee or volunteer working for or within StCH who is concerned about the welfare of a child is responsible for following the guidance laid out in the flow charts in appendices 1 and 2.

No one should assume someone else will pass on information. If you are concerned it is your responsibility to share that information. It is not our responsibility to decide whether a child has been abused or not.

What is abuse and neglect?

Abuse and neglect are forms of maltreatment - a person may abuse or neglect a child by inflicting harm, or by failing to act to prevent harm. Children may be abused in a family or in an institutional or community setting by those known to them or, more rarely, by others (e.g. via the internet). They may be abused by an adult or adults, or another child or children.

The following definitions of abuse are used nationally

Physical Abuse	A form of abuse which may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating, or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child.
Emotional Abuse	The persistent emotional maltreatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to children that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate. It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. These may include interactions that are beyond the child's developmental capability, as well as overprotection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child participating in normal social interaction. It may involve seeing or hearing the ill treatment of another. It may involve serious bullying (including cyberbullying), causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, though it may occur alone.
Sexual Abuse	Involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example, rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing and touching outside of clothing. They may also include non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse (including via the internet). Sexual abuse is not solely perpetrated by adult males. Women can also commit acts of sexual abuse, as can other children.
Neglect	The persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy as a result of maternal substance abuse. Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or carer failing to provide: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • adequate food, clothing and shelter (including exclusion from home or abandonment); • protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger; ensure adequate supervision (including the use of inadequate care-givers); • or ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.

More detailed information including risk indicators and how to recognise abuse of neglect is available in the Pan Sussex Child Protection and Safeguarding Procedures Manual¹⁰. and NICE Quick Reference Guide - when to suspect child maltreatment. 2009¹¹.

Keeping Safe Mechanism – Appendix 5 and 6

In light of the OXFAM story (Feb 2018), StCH, working with the Board Safeguarding Lead, reviewed how adults and young people under 18 (volunteers and staff) are supported and managed – including those on Duke of Edinburgh placements.

A keep safe mechanism has been introduced for adults at risk and young people under 18yrs old. If when engaged in their volunteering role with StCH they feel unsafe they are encouraged to 'walk out' – to leave their roles and to go home or somewhere that they feel safe. If this needs to happen volunteers or their guardian/next of kin should contact Volunteer Services immediately to advise StCH what has happened.

Out of Hours the person or their guardian/next of kin should contact StCH. The SMT member on call should be contacted and they should call the person back. See flow chart Appendix 6.

Each StCH shop has a physical manual containing information pertinent to safeguarding including the Keep Safe Mechanism. Shop volunteers are encouraged to read this as part of their induction.

Details about the Keep Safe Mechanism are included in volunteer recruitment information. The guardian/next of kin of the young person is encouraged to read this information.

Female Genital Mutilation (FGM)

This involves procedures that include the partial or total removal of the external female genital organs for cultural or other non-therapeutic reasons. The practice is medically unnecessary, extremely painful and has serious health consequences, both at the time when the mutilation is carried out and in later life. The age at which girls undergo FGM varies enormously according to the community. The procedure may be carried out when the girl is new born, during childhood or adolescence, just before marriage or during the first pregnancy. FGM constitutes a form of child abuse and violence against women and girls, and has severe physical and psychological consequences. In England, Wales and Northern Ireland, the practice is illegal under the *Female Genital Mutilation Act 2003*¹³. Section 5B of the 2003 Act introduces a mandatory reporting duty which requires regulated health and social care professionals and teachers in England and Wales to report 'known' cases of FGM in under18s which they identify in the course of their professional work to the police.

The duty came into force on 31 October 2015¹⁴.

Young Carers¹⁰

Adults under the care of StCH may have a young carer. A young carer is defined as "... a young person under 18 who has a responsibility for caring on a regular basis for a relative.... who has an illness or disability..."¹⁰. Being a young carer can lead to losses for the child and many experience a low level of school attendance, some educational difficulties, social isolation and conflict between loyalty to family and their wish to have their own needs met. These children are entitled to assessment and support, and we should assist their parents to request this from the local authority, in collaboration with their school where appropriate.

If a member of staff or volunteer has concerns that a young carer is at risk of neglect, abuse or harm a referral must be made to the local authority as for any child for whom there are welfare concerns (see appendices 1 and 2). The same guidance also applies with regard to information sharing and confidentiality as laid out in appendix 4.

Honour Based Violence (HBV)

HBV may be committed when family members feel that dishonour has been brought to their family. Women are predominantly (but not exclusively) the victims and the abuse is often committed with a degree of collusion from family members and/or the community. Many victims are so isolated and controlled that they are unable to contact the police or other organisations. Safeguarding concerns that may indicate 'honour'-based abuse include domestic abuse, concerns about forced marriage or enforced house arrest and missing person reports. If a concern is raised and there is a suspicion that the child is the victim of 'honour'-based abuse, a referral to the police should always be considered as they have the necessary expertise to manage the risk.

Forced Marriage^{19,20}

Forced marriage is a term used to describe a marriage in which one or both of the parties is married without their consent or against their will. A forced marriage differs from an arranged marriage, in which both parties consent to the assistance of their parents or a third party in identifying a spouse. Multi-agency practice guidelines recommend that cases involving forced marriage are best dealt with by child protection or adult protection specialists. In a situation where there is concern that a child is being forced into a marriage they do not or cannot consent to, there may be an overlap between action taken under the forced marriage provisions and the child safeguarding process. In this case action will be co-ordinated with the police and other relevant organisations, such as the Forced Marriage Unit. Forced marriage is a criminal offence.

Impact of Covid 19

The Covid 19 pandemic has meant that children and young people are now more vulnerable than before because there are fewer opportunities for the adults in their lives to spot identify and respond to child protection concerns and issues. Recognising when a family may need extra support, and noticing signs of abuse can be more difficult as telephone and virtual consultations are more prevalent. It also poses new risks that children and young people can be exposed to. How we work to keep children and young people safe during the pandemic is laid out in appendix 7.

Training

All staff and volunteers recruited by StCH will receive regular training to enable them to effectively safeguard, protect and promote the welfare of children and young people¹ appropriate to their role. In addition, staff are expected to follow their relevant professional guidance (eg GMC, NMC).

StCH must be assured that any externally contracted provider of safeguarding education and training explicitly states how any course or learning opportunity meets the required intercollegiate framework¹ level (whether face to face or e learning).

Visitors

All visitors to StCH (any site) other than friends and family members visiting patients must be accompanied by a member of staff at all times

Visitors in this context includes the following groups:

- people being shown around the hospice by members of staff
- official visitors/celebrities

It does not include staff on clinical placements who follow a clear procedure including StCH being assured of a valid and appropriate DBS check as part of being accepted on placement. Friends and family members visiting patients will sign a register to confirm who they are visiting.

Concern, allegation or incident of abuse or neglect involving a member of staff or volunteer of StCH

- It is the responsibility of StCH to act immediately upon a concern/allegation/incident and protect the child(ren) from harm. The executive safeguarding lead, safeguarding lead and People Director will decide who should lead an investigation within StCH, following consultation with the designated officer/team for the management and oversight of allegations against people who work with children from the Local Authority.
- Any allegation against a member of staff or volunteer should be reported immediately to a senior manager who should seek immediate advice from SMT, the safeguarding lead and People Director. The Local Authority Officer/team should be informed within 1 working day of all allegations brought to employers attention or made directly to police (this should be done by the safeguarding lead, senior manager or a senior HR team member).
- The local authority, CQC and CCG must be informed of incidents or allegations originating from StCH and/or its staff or volunteers. The local authority which needs to be informed will depend on where the allegation took place - if it is in the relation to the IPU it will be West Sussex, if in the community, West Sussex, Surrey or East Sussex. The CCG needs to be informed if they are commissioning the StCH service within which the allegation/incident took place.
- The Local Authority Officer/team will provide advice and guidance to StCH. They are available to provide advice or support in any allegations process, including advising whether or not immediate suspension of the person concerned should be initiated.
- A StCH employee against whom a complaint or allegation of abuse or neglect has been made should be treated in line with StCH policies and procedures. Codes of professional conduct and/or employment contracts should be followed.
 - If a member of staff is removed from their role providing a regulatory activity following a safeguarding incident, where certain conditions are met, StCH has a legal duty to make a referral to the DBS (this is the responsibility of the People Director)²¹.
- If criminal procedures are concluded without action being taken, this does not mean that regulatory or disciplinary procedures should cease or not be considered.
 - The Charity Commission needs to be informed of serious incidents. This is the responsibility of the Chief Executive. See appendix 4 as to when consideration must be given to refer to the Charity Commission.

Documentation of Safeguarding Concerns

All safeguarding concerns must be recorded clearly and accurately as outlined below:

- The following details should be documented in the child's electronic notes using the significant new events box and the decisions and capacity window to guide decision making if there are concerns about mental capacity:
 - what the concerns are and when they were identified
 - whether the child(ren) and parent/carer involved have given their consent to reporting concerns and their involvement in decision making about action to be taken including their wishes. If consent has not been gained to share concerns, the reason why must be clearly stated. See appendix 3 on sharing information about what needs to be included.
 - what has been done to minimise risk/harm and to protect the child(ren) involved
 - to whom the concerns have been reported and when
 - date/time concerns reported to local authority and by whom.
 - further action required by StCH pending local authority response.
 - If the concerns relate to a child related to an adult under the care of StCH, that a concern has been raised should be flagged in the adult's electronic notes

To ensure you are using the current version of this document, please access it directly via StCH intranet; other versions cannot be guaranteed as current

- All documentation must be factual, objective and not include opinion or assumption. Current law and guidance on confidentiality and information sharing must be considered as outlined below.
- The safeguarding lead will collaborate with the local authority if further action or information is required from StCH following a safeguarding concern being raised in relation to a child(ren).
- All information (including outcomes) will be collated to report to SMT
- The collated information will be stored securely by the safeguarding lead in accordance with prevailing guidance and legislation.

The safeguarding lead /deputy will maintain a log of all safeguarding concerns raised. This log is only accessible to them and to the Medical Director. Concerns raised that, on discussion, are not referred through safeguarding procedures will be logged as well as those referred.

Safeguarding concerns are not required to be logged on Datix. However, if in investigating an incident or complaint/concern, the investigator identifies safeguarding concerns, this must be indicated on the Datix form and managed as per this policy. There are circumstances where an event will be both an incident or complaint/concern and safeguarding concern. In these situations, a Datix form should be completed and the safeguarding lead /deputy involved in managing the investigation.

Procedures for information sharing

Any sensitive and/or confidential information must be shared in accordance with prevailing law and guidance including but not exclusive to the Data Protection Act 2018⁶. Information must be shared using secure means such as nhs email or equivalent. Appendix 3 outlines key principles and questions to guide decision making about the appropriateness of sharing information. If you are not sure whether it is appropriate to share information, the safeguarding lead or deputy, or the Caldicott Guardian or their deputy can provide guidance.

Safeguarding and Fundraising Events

Fundraising and events organised by the fundraising department will operate within the parameters of this policy. As part of each event management plan, specific procedures will be put in place to meet legal or licensing obligations (for example, the police may request a lost and found children policy for large scale events) and/or to mitigate risks identified by event specific risk assessments. The Fundraising team will seek advice from the StCH safeguarding team in production of such procedures.

7. Dissemination

This policy will be disseminated to all staff by the author. The reason for the policy and any major changes will be highlighted in the issuing email. Managers will be contacted by the author reiterating the purpose of the policy and any significant changes and to remind them of their responsibility in ensuring their staff are aware of the policy and where to find it. Staff will also be advised of any newly issued or updated policies through Headlines and Clinical News.

8. Monitoring and review

The safeguarding lead will circulate a written update annually to all staff/volunteers about safeguarding/child protection. This will include updates to this policy, any changes in legislation, summary of concerns raised and outcomes, outcomes from reviews and risks associated with internet/social networking.

This policy will be reviewed on an annual basis or earlier if there are changes in the legislation or associated guidance.

The equality impact assessment is used to ensure we do not inadvertently discriminate as a service provider or as an employer.

Information Sharing

In general, because the Articles 2 and 3 of the Human Rights Act 1989¹², right to life and right to protection from torture, are absolute rights, they always supersede the qualifiable right in Article 8 to respect for private and family life. That means that where a concern about possible abuse or neglect of a child has been raised with the designated person, and it is agreed that discussion with their parent could put the child in danger, a referral should be made to social care without the parent's consent.

In general, it is better to share where abuse is suspected, than not to share, and recording what is shared with whom and for what reason will normally provide a defence to a complaint.

The more detailed guidance below outlines when and how to share information in relation to safeguarding/child protection concerns. The guidance draws strongly on the document 'What to do if you're worried a child is being abused'⁷ which draws on the information in Information Sharing: guidance for practitioners and managers⁸. A flow chart summarising the guidance can be found at the end of the appendix.

There are six key points to follow when considering sharing information.

- You should explain to children, young people and families at the outset, openly and honestly, what and how information will, or could be shared and why, and seek their agreement. The exception to this is where to do so would put that child, young person or others at increased risk of significant harm or an adult at risk of serious harm, or if it would undermine the prevention, detection or prosecution of a serious crime including where seeking consent might lead to interference with any potential investigation.
- You must always consider the safety and welfare of a child or young person when making decisions on whether to share information about them. Where there is concern that the child may be suffering or is at risk of suffering significant harm, the child's safety and welfare must be the overriding consideration.
- You should, where possible, respect the wishes of children, young people or families who do not consent to share confidential information. You may still share information, if in your judgment on the facts of the case, there is sufficient need in the public interest to override that lack of consent.
- You should seek advice where you are in doubt, especially where your doubt relates to a concern about possible significant harm to a child or serious harm to others.
- You should ensure that the information you share is accurate and up-to-date, necessary for the purpose for which you are sharing it, shared only with those people who need to see it, and shared securely.
- You should always record the reasons for your decision – whether it is to share information or not.

The following eight key questions should be used to support your decision making (this is also summarised in the flow chart in appendix 4)

1. Is there a legitimate purpose for you or your agency to share information?
 - There needs to be good reason or legitimate purpose to share information
 - The sharing of information must comply with the law relating to confidentiality, data protection and human rights. Establishing a legitimate purpose for sharing information is an important part of meeting these requirements

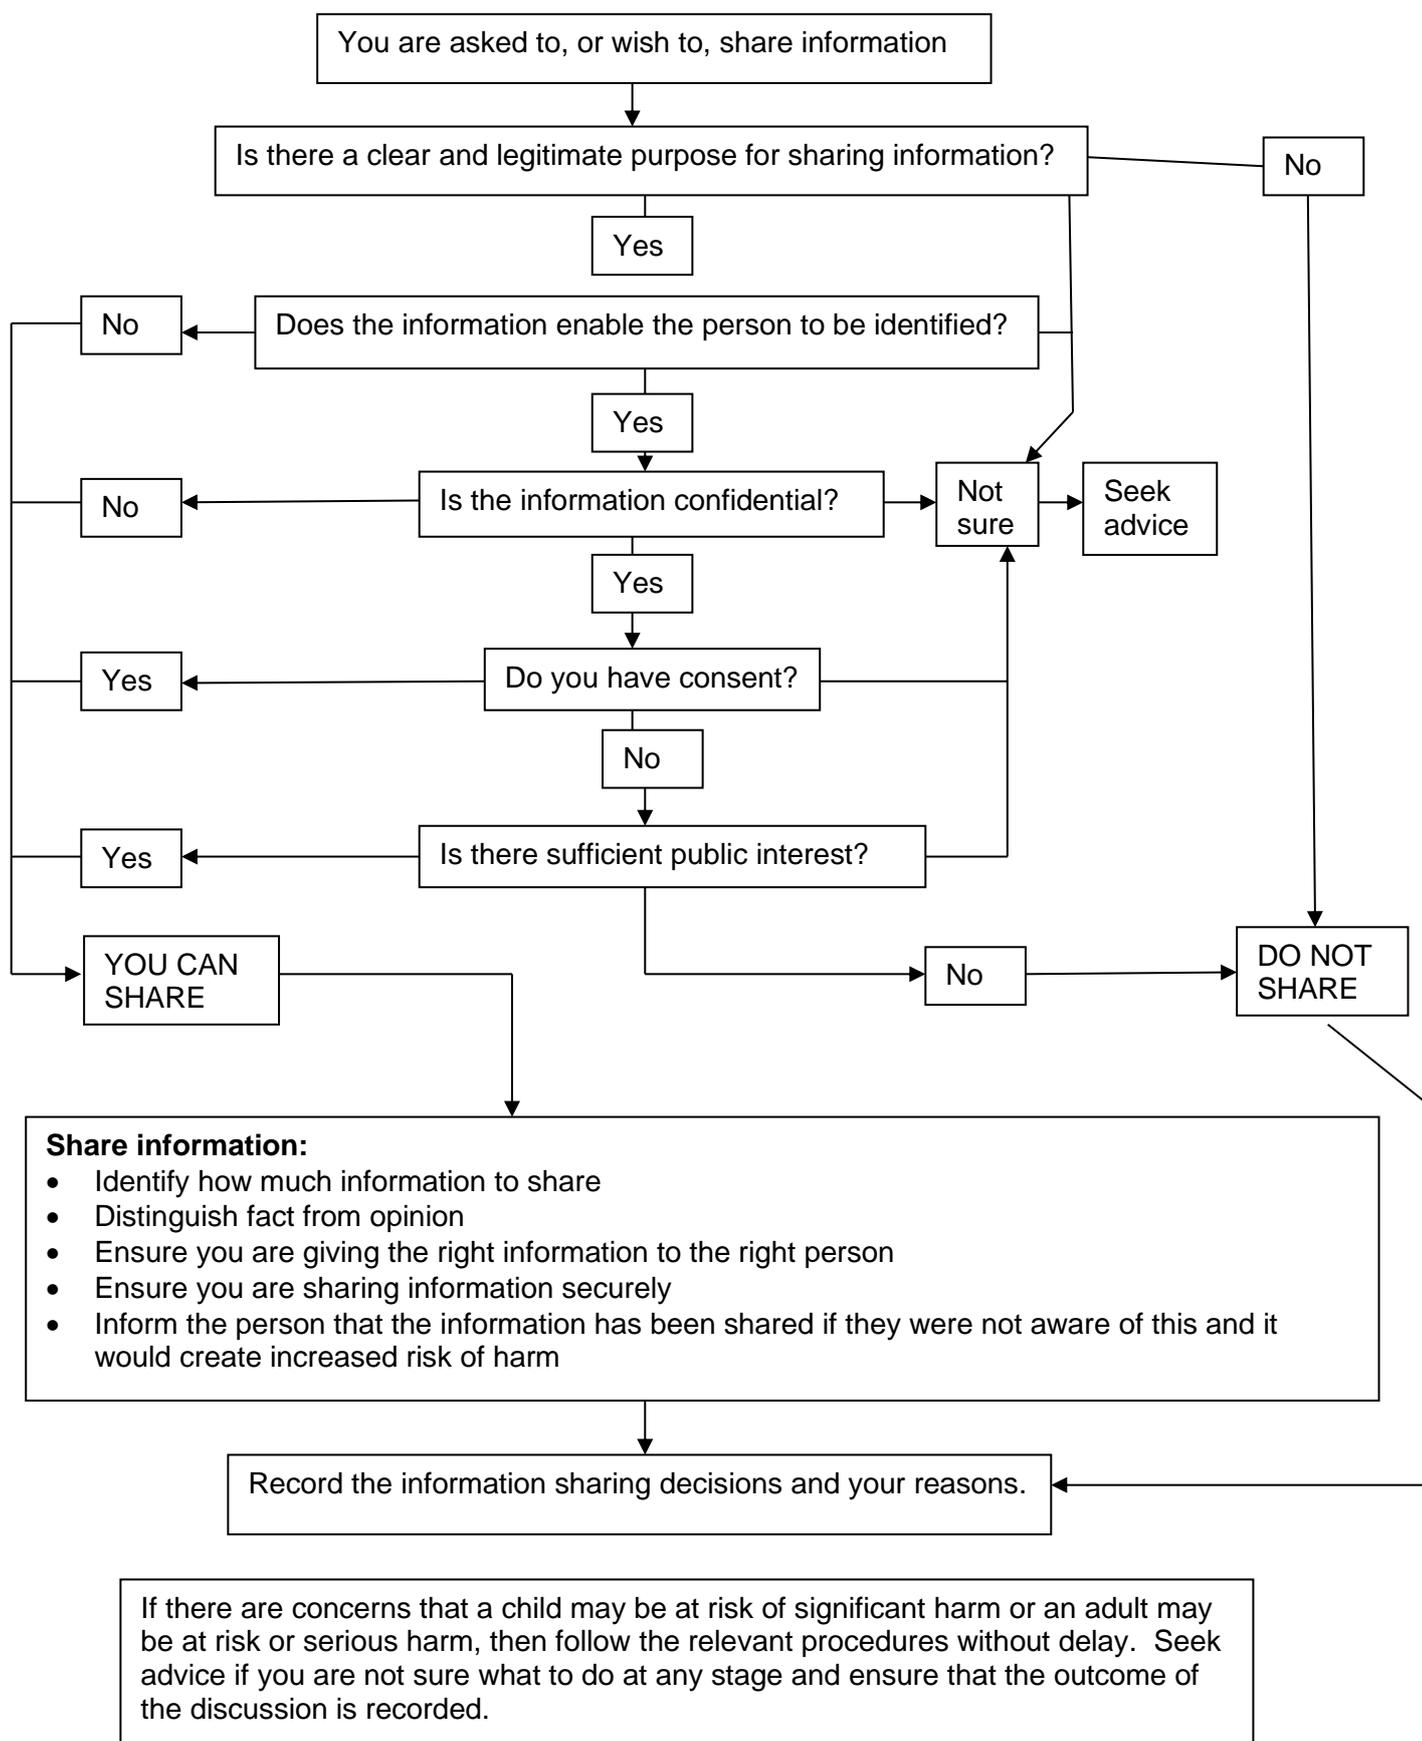

To ensure you are using the current version of this document, please access it directly via StCH intranet; other versions cannot be guaranteed as current

2. Does the information enable a person to be identified?
 - If the information is anonymised, it can be lawfully shared as long as the purpose for sharing is legitimate
 - If the information allows a person to be identified, subject to data protection law, you must be open about what information you might need to share and why.
3. Is the information confidential?
 - Confidential information - information of some sensitivity, not already lawfully in the public domain or readily available from another public source and which has been shared in a relationship where the person giving the information understood it would not be shared with others.
 - Confidence is breached if the sharing of confidential information is not authorised by the person who provided it or to who it relates
 - Confidential information comes in different forms, e.g.
 - where a formal relationship exists (eg doctor/patient) all information shared is confidential
 - in an informal relationship a person may ask for specific information to be treated as confidential (eg pupil/teacher)
 - others may assume information will be kept confidential - it is important to check what is and isn't and what may be shared.
 - public bodies who hold sensitive information for the purpose of carrying out function have duty of confidentiality (all patient, carer and staff information held by StCH meets this criteria)
4. Do you have consent to share?
 - Consent to share information must be informed (why, who, purpose, implications) and may be implicit or explicit
 - The approach for securing consent should be transparent and respect the individual
 - The consent of the person to whom the information relates or who has provided the information on the basis it is kept confidential should be sought. A young person who is 16 or 17 or child under 16 who has capacity to understand and make their own decisions may give consent to sharing information.
 - To help establish a young person's or child's understanding to consent ask:
 - Can they understand the question being asked of them?
 - Do they have a reasonable understanding of what information might be shared, the main reason or reasons for sharing information, the implications of sharing information and of not sharing it?
 - Can they appreciate and consider the alternative courses of action open to them, weigh up one aspect of the situation against another, express a clear personal view on the matter, as distinct from repeating what someone else thinks they should do, be reasonably consistent in their view on the matter, or are they constantly changing their mind?
 - Where consent cannot be gained from the child, usually the person with parental responsibility should give consent on behalf of the child. Consent of one such person with parental responsibility is sufficient
 - You must always act in accordance with your own professional code of practice and in the best interests of child
 - Consent should not be sought when to do so would, place a child at increased risk of significant harm, place an adult at increased risk of serious harm, prejudice the prevention or detection of a serious crime and or lead to unjustified delay in making enquiries about allegations of significant harm
5. Is there a statutory duty or court order to share information?

To ensure you are using the current version of this document, please access it directly via StCH intranet; other versions cannot be guaranteed as current

- Where the person has a specific disease or a court makes an order for information it must share even if confidential and consent has not been given.
6. Is there sufficient public interest to share information?
- In deciding whether public interest justifies disclosing confidential information without consent, advice can be sought from your line manager, named doctor, Caldicott guardian or professional body.
 - If you decide to share information without consent, explain to affected person that you intend to share the information and why unless one or more of the reasons why consent should not be sought is met.
 - The key factor in deciding whether or not to share confidential information is proportionality, i.e. whether the proposed sharing is a proportionate response to the need to protect the public interest in question. In making the decision you must weigh up what might happen if the information is shared against what might happen if it is not, and make a decision based on a reasonable judgement.
7. If the decision is to share, are you sharing the proper information in the proper way?
- Share the information which is necessary for the purpose for which it is shared
 - Share the information with the person/people who need to know,
 - Check the information is accurate and up to date
 - Share it in a secure way
 - Establish whether recipient intends to pass on to others
 - Inform the person to whom the information relates
8. Have you properly recorded your decision?
- Record decision and reasons for whether or not you decide to share information
 - If information is shared record what was shared and with whom
 - Work within organisations arrangements for sharing information which must be in accordance with DPA 2018

The Impact of Covid 19

Day-to-day working arrangements due to Covid 19 include the introduction of virtual consultations with patients in their own homes and increased contact via telephone with face to face contacts happening when necessary. There are also restricted visiting arrangements on the inpatient unit.

Children and young people are more vulnerable than before, there are fewer opportunities for the adults in their lives to spot identify and respond to child protection concerns and issues. Patients with children and young people in the home may need additional support during the pandemic, for example income loss, mental health problems, family conflict and difficulty getting food. Children and young people may be exposed to new risks as the pandemic continues such as:

- Online technology is invaluable for enabling children and young people to continue their learning, and feeling connected. But changes in online behaviour can put young people at risk of online abuse including grooming and radicalisation
- During this intense period of social distancing where families are spending more time together, staff and volunteers need to be aware of the heightened risk of domestic abuse occurring within the home
- Some young people's mental health may suffer during the pandemic. Staff should refer to the wellbeing team for counselling, social work and spiritual care support. They can assess the needs and refer to external services if necessary
- Patient's mental health will also be affected during the pandemic. This will affect the children and young people in the family so staff should be mindful of the support they may need as well as the patient

If staff and volunteers are communicating with patients via video or telephone calls this should be done safely by planning with the patient who will be in the home when the consultation is taking place. If a child or young person is seen or heard in the background the staff member should ask to introduce themselves and explain the reason for the video call. Support can then be offered to the young person directly.

Safeguarding and child protection during the pandemic remains as important as ever, especially as the usual child protection systems are under increased pressure. If any staff member or volunteer has a concern about a child, they should act immediately following the procedures in this document.
