How St Catherine's can help you after a bereavement

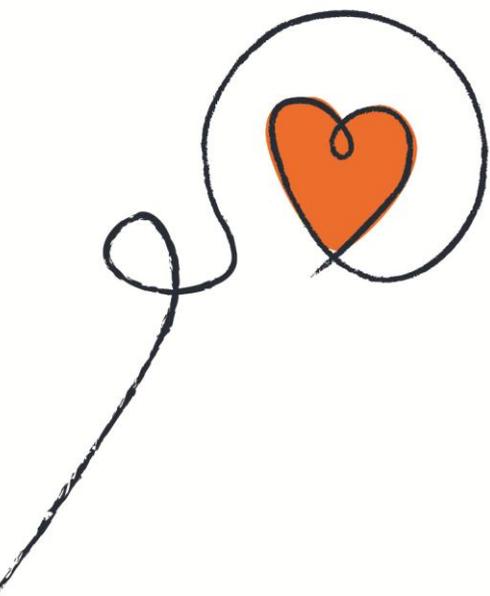

Bereavement Support

Support for families is available from the Patient and Family Support Team at any time following the death of a loved one under the care of the St Catherine's Hospice team.

Individual Support

Bereavement can be a difficult and bewildering time. If you feel you would like help in making sense of your loss and exploring how you might manage life in the future, or just an opportunity to share your thoughts with someone other than friends and family, we can offer individual one-to-one sessions either by our team of counsellors, student counsellors or our support volunteers, depending on your needs. All support is confidential and is free of charge. We offer up to nine sessions to each individual and the sessions take place at the hospice site, or if required, at home.

“I was in a very dark place when I started having counselling. I’m now me again.”

Bereavement Support Groups

St Catherine's offers two types of bereavement group.

There is an informal 'drop-in' group for people who have been bereaved following the loss of anyone close to them and from time to time there are also groups for people who are affected by the same type of loss, e.g. those who have suffered the loss of an adult child or those who have young children who have lost a parent. Individual invitations are sent to invite people to join a group as appropriate.

People who have attended these groups have found them hugely beneficial. By sharing their experiences they have felt less alone and isolated and knowing that other people experience similar feelings to their own has made those feelings more manageable. They have been able to share ways of coping, from finding an activity for a Sunday night to being recommended a reliable plumber! Some people who have come along to these groups have met up between meetings, sharing their company and their interests.

Community Bereavement Support Groups

The community bereavement support groups are run in conjunction with Crawley United Reformed Church, and the Oxted Three Churches. You can choose to come along on a one-off basis, from time to time, or attend regularly to meet with others who have been bereaved, while enjoying some light refreshments. One of the volunteers will greet you as you first arrive and make introductions.

Going out to new places following bereavement can be very difficult, so you may prefer to bring along a friend.

The groups are held in Crawley and Oxted.

The Crawley group is held every Thursday between 1pm-3pm in the church hall of the Crawley United Reformed Church in Worth Park Avenue, Pound Hill, Crawley, by the junction of Worth Road.

Memory Meadow

Join us in early summer for a celebration service at our St Catherine's Memory Meadow in Priory Park, Reigate. Our Memory Meadow is made up of traditional English flowers that have been especially chosen to attract wildlife like butterflies and bees. It offers a beautiful space for you to come together with others in your community to remember your loved one and celebrate their life.

Tree Of Light Service

This service of remembrance is held annually at K2 Leisure Centre in Crawley on a Sunday early in December. Other services are held in churches throughout the St Catherine's area around the same time. These services provide a unique and special opportunity to remember loved ones.
